Tracking Consultants' Time on Projects Isn't Easy

Xero is used by many organizations, including those that work on client consultancy projects. It helps manage financial information and keep up with bookkeeping, billing and invoicing. Xero is a great tool for tracking income, expenses, scheduled bills or any payment made to vendors or billers.

While most organizations have systems to track their assets, inventory and other resources, tracking consultants' time can be more challenging. Yet it's a pressing need, because consultants often work on multiple projects for several clients simultaneously; it becomes unwieldy trying to manage the billing process with accuracy. What's needed is a solution that can capture consultant time and project expenses, with the ability to push that information seamlessly into an accounting system for effective payment management.

Manage Client Billing Better with Replicon Connector for Xero

The Replicon Connector for Xero enables you to integrate Replicon's time tracking expertise and Xero accounting software, for a seamless exchange of project, time and billing information. The result is successful end-to-end project completion and client billing for both consultant time and project expenses.
